

AROUND THE J-COM

Schools and community

STUDENTS TAKE ACTION

Moriah goes colourful

A GROUP of year 12 Moriah College students have started a social media campaign to help combat the COVID-19 crisis.

Through the Moriah Goes Colourful initiative, the students are encouraging their school community to donate to the Royal Brisbane and Women's Hospital (RBWH)'s Coronavirus Action Fund and, if they're willing, to also dye their hair a fun colour to raise awareness.

"Money raised for the RBWH Coronavirus Action Fund goes directly towards supporting medical research, clinical drug trials and hospital staff all across Australia," said year 12 student Liat Grossman.

"They raise money not just for one resource, but for various different ones, including grants for medicine, and much needed support for medical professionals who have been working throughout this tough time."

Donate at coronavirusactionfund.everydayhero.com/au/moriah-hair-dyeing

AGED CARE IN LOCKDOWN

Monte keeps moving

Although Montefiore Residential Care campuses are closed to visitors, residents are staying connected to each other through safe social and wellbeing support programs, and with loved ones outside the home via video call.

Creative therapy provides an ongoing outlet for Paul Zeman at the Randwick campus.

Toba Elias and Jean Sher raised their glasses to a different Pesach this year at Montefiore Hunters Hill. The usual family seders were replaced with smaller, festive resident-only dinners.

Residents at the Hunters Hill campus get active while adhering to social distancing measures.

Lina Lipton staying fit at the Randwick campus.

Montefiore Woollahra resident Coral Seef connects with her family online.

THIS IS NOT
1.5 METRES

Practising social distancing during a pandemic will save lives

KEEP YOUR DISTANCE

Hand hygiene • Cough and sneeze etiquette • Social distancing

See www.csngsw.org.au/alerts for information on the Jewish Emergency Management Plan (JEMP)

WOLPER
JEWISH HOSPITAL

Australian Jewish News